I DO NOT CHOOSE TO BE A COMMON MAN

It is my right to be uncommon—if I can. I seek opportunity—not security. I do not wish to be a kept citizen, humbled and dulled by having the state look after me.

I want to take the calculated risk; to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed.

I refuse to barter incentive for a dole. I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence; the thrill of fulfillment to the state calm of utopia.

I will not trade freedom for beneficence nor my dignity for a handout. I will never cower before any master nor bend to any threat.

It is my heritage to stand erect, proud and unafraid; to think and act for myself, enjoy the benefit of my creations and to face the world boldly and say, this I have done.

All this is what it means to be an American.

—Dean Alfango

Note of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and all those who have been so kind to us during our time of sorrow.

THE RAY JOHNSON Family

This action was taken by the council without a public hearing, prior notice or discussion. No explanation of this item was given at the time the budget was approved.

The tax applies to all industrial and residential users of telephones, gas and electricity. It is claimed to be an equal tax arrangement. With much fanfare, and self-acclaim, the council earlier this year decreased the Albany tax rate by 21 cents per $100 assessed valuation. But what this amounts to is a tax shift—and the utilities tax takes its place.

The Richmond City Council on Monday, Aug. 25, announced an increased tax rate of 22 cents per $100 AV over last year. But they postponed final action pending public scrutiny of that five per cent utility tax. They are waiting two weeks before taking action.

Will the councilmen of Albany give us, as well as all taxpayers, an explanation on this action? Will they learn to deal openly, honestly and forthrightly with the persons who elected them?

Aladdin Chapter Seats New Officers, Chairmen

Aladdin chapter of Children's Home Society met at the home of Mrs. William Ortman. President Mrs. Will Daniel received a token of appreciation from the group for having been such a fine president all year. She turned the meeting over to the new president, Mrs. Dee Taylor, who outlined activities for the coming year and introduced her new board of officers: vice president, Mrs. William Jackson; recording secretary, Mrs. Gregory Cook; treasurer, Mrs. Oscar Bates; corresponding sec-

tary, Mrs. A. P. DeMercurio.

The following chairmen were introduced: hospitality, Mrs. Richard Zettel; volunteers, Mrs. Earl Mullinix; memorials, Mrs. V. Tashinian; telephone, Mrs. Robert Craig; membership, Mrs. Douglas Sturges; inter-chapter relations, Mrs. Will Daniel, publicity, Mrs. Maurice Giles.

AHS Students Turn Actors, Producers Making Films

For the last six weeks of school two AHS English teachers conducted a film-making unit with their classes. Mrs. Pat Preston and Mrs. Jan Ellwanger gave students the opportunity to use their creativity and express themselves through the visual art of film.

Students wrote scripts, designed sets, directed and acted in productions to show to their schoolmates. Students also learned to use 8mm and 16mm movie cameras, and they edited some of the films.

Illegal to Open Door to Traffic

"It is illegal to open the door of a vehicle on the traffic side unless it is safe to do so and can be done without interfering with traffic," Captain W. J. Bradshaw of the California Highway Patrol warns.

Each year many accidents occur because drivers open their doors onto moving traffic without looking, the Patrol commander said.

"These accidents mostly result in property damage only, but they can be pretty costly, either directly or indirectly, to the persons responsible for them."

The CHP official also noted that the vehicle code prohibits leaving a door open on the traffic side longer than is necessary to load or unload passengers.

This sixweek unit also allowed students to investigate and report on related subjects such as editing, applying sound to film, lighting, modern film techniques and the history of the film art.

Albany High school plans to offer an English elective semester course in Film Communication this year, and from overall response of students, the class should be a success. The objectives of such a class include allowing students to work within a media that is very much a part of modern life and giving them the opportunity to write and critically analyze films.

Instead of writing essays, stories and poems, students will be attempting to express their thoughts and feelings through visual art. Students will read novels and watch movies and compare the two ways of telling a story.

Because today's teenagers have grown up in the age of mass media, it is hoped by the administration and faculty that a course in Film Communication will be beneficial to the students.

PG&E Films Epic Battle In 'Storm'

The battle of Pacific Gas and Electric company crews to keep power flowing during one of the worst winters in California history is dramatically told in a new film, entitled "Storm," which is now available free for public showings.

The 20 minute color documentary traces the formation of a storm and shows what happened when violent winds and heavy snow hit the Sierra and floods wreaked havoc in the lush valleys. The film is the saga of men struggling against the elements to keep vital power links open.

Jon F. Stanton, the company's prize winning cinematographer, worked alongside electric crews high in the Sierra during howling blizzards and in flooded areas of the valley to capture on film the full force of the storm's fury.

The script was written by Caryl Coleman, author of numerous TV successes, and the film was edited by Dave Butler. Marvin Miller, Hollywood radio personality is the narrator.

The 16 mm movie will be lent without cost to schools, service clubs and other groups through the PG&E Film Library, San Francisco, or local offices of the company.

PICTURE, TV COUNCIL ALL LUNCHEON SEPT. 8

Executive Board members of the Motion Picture and Television Council have issued invitations to their fourth Annual Luncheon meeting to be held at the Regency Hotel, Sept. 8, at 10 a.m. in the Regency Ball Room, 2075 Broadway, New York City.

The public is invited to attend, and special guests will be the television and motion picture industry executives and other interested persons.

Charles Stewart, public relations chairman, will explain the purpose of the luncheon, and Ernest Miller, film approval chairman for the past two years, will report on the work of that office and distribute the member Family Viewing sheet.

P. Abernethy will conduct the luncheon, which will include television programs, and work as television chairman. The luncheon will be held at the Regency Hotel, 2075 Broadway, New York City, at 10 a.m. on Sept. 8.

The Motion Picture and Television Council was founded 20 years ago with its object to promote better motion pictures and television programs for children and youth. The Council welcomes new members who are interested in this field of service.

New Marin Parents Invited to Coffee

There will be a coffee hour in the cafeteria of Marin at 8:50 a.m. on Sept. 10 for the parents of kindergartners and other children new to the school. Mrs. John Sofranac and Mrs. David Hendrie are in charge of the occasion.

Representatives from the parent volunteers program and the cooperative nursery school will speak briefly.

Parents not new to Marin are asked to attend to help insure a warm welcome.

DEMO WOMEN

Mrs. Robert E. Nisbet, chairman of the Alameda County Women's Division, will discuss fall plans for Democratic Women at the noon luncheon meeting at the Alameda County Democratic Women's Study Club, Wednesday, Sept. 10, at Tom Lovely's Buffet, 336 Grand Ave., Oakland. Interested persons are invited to attend.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS

Albany Parlor 260, NDGW, meets Wednesday, Sept. 3, 7:30 p.m. at Albany Temple, 533 San Pablo Ave., to complete plans for the official visit of Grand President Nancy Conens Sept. 17. Caroline Camozzi is Albany chairman for the occasion.

Volunteers Needed to Prepare Christmas Seals

"Turn Your Spare Time into Share Time" is the theme of the 1969 call for volunteers by the TB and Health Association of Alameda County, 1537 Webster St., Oakland, as it gears up for its 60th annual Christmas Seal campaign.

"Nearly one million colorful Christmas Seals will be mailed to 335,000 Alameda County homes this fall, and volunteer help is needed desperately to prepare this mailing," said Gordon H. Huber, Jr., campaign chairman.

Mail preparation starts Wednesday, Sept. 3, in the Association's offices located between 15th and 17th streets on the west side of Webster. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Volunteers planning to spend the day should bring their own lunch, and refreshments will be served them.

The mammoth mailing must be completed by the end of September and requires 20-30 volunteers per day to get it done, Huber said.

Huber added that at the close of the campaign, volunteers and groups are given awards based on the number of hours' service given to the Association during its campaign processing period.

The Association is in new offices for the first time in 47 years, but the phone number remains the same, 893-5474.

and was told she should come to the station and get a release. The woman has a sprained back and shouldn't drive, so a friend offered to take her to the station. They picked up the release and were directed to Central Avenue Towing in Richmond to get the car. There she was told the bill was $22, which she paid, and that

The Mail Bag

Editor, The Times:

The Board of Directors and the Post in general wish to convey our gratitude, and respect, for the efforts of your paper on our behalf. The writing and pictures, publishing our activities has been a boon to the Post, and has benefited Albany in general.

Without your cooperation, our efforts and whatever good we may have performed would surely be lessened. We look forward hopefully to a future of enduring vigor, aided and ornamented by the good offices, labors, and good will of the paper.

her car was in a lot on Cutting. She asked if they would start the car before she arrived on Cutting to make sure it would run. She was assured they would.

At the Cutting address, the women found a man sitting in a chair drinking a Coke. The car was trapped by one vehicle in front and three behind. It had not been started. Just when it seemed the woman might retrieve her car, the lone attendant went on a call. He eventually returned and without getting the trapped car, he left on another call.

The woman's friend, who by then had spent from 9:30 to 11:40 with her, had an appointment in San Francisco and had to return home. So they came back to Albany without the car.

The woman stopped at the Times. We told her to contact Police Chief Ralph Jensen. Later she came back to report she had made a deal with the towing company. They returned her $22 in exchange for the car. She wasn't very happy with the solution, but she didn't want to keep paying $2 a day for storage.

Somehow the whole situation seems unfair. She trusted people to sell her car, it wasn't her fault it was overparked, the notice wasn't specific and spending most of a day chasing down and trying to get the car was inefficient and frustrating. Hope it isn't happening to others whose cars are towed away.

RETURNED late last week from the first real vacation in eight years. The purpose was to take my Mom home to northeastern Montana and show the kids how beautiful and wonderful the old home state is. They rode horseback, drove farm machinery, milked a cow, gathered eggs, went through breathtaking scenery, ate thick, juicy New York steaks at Frontier Town near Helena, saw "Gone With the Wind" at a drive-in theater, stayed in plushy motels with swimming pools and a rustic cabin at Old Faithful in Yellowstone. They were in four states and stepped across into Canada. I really thought I'd done pretty well for them until their Dad, who stayed home, asked what they liked best. They liked the trip up and back!

Montana is having a record-breaking summer heatwave. Last winter they shattered all previous records for cold. I've always recalled everything about Montana with great tenderness. It was shattering to realize how Bay Area weather spoils one. I couldn't wait for the first cool breeze that meant home.

The car choked and sputtered through most of the 4,000 mile trip but every major difficulty occurred near a gas station or in front of a house with a telephone. We met a variety of service station attendants and mechanics, each of whom fixed a thing or two and assured us that would be the end of the trouble. There was one notable exception—the elderly garage owner in a small town off the highway in Nevada who listened impatiently to our story of a peculiar noise and snapped, "Move along, lady. Can't you see I'm busy?" Later a rear bearing went out.

Then a hose broke, the fuel pump had to be replaced, the distributor head broke, the carburetor plugged up several times—name it. You might say we should buy a new car, but that would be silly now. It was almost rebuilt during the trip.

Anyway, it's good to be home.

EARLIER THIS summer, Ellen Woodard advertised in the Times that she would take care of pets and plants for vacationing residents. We called on this enterprising and thoroughly responsible young lady to take over our menagerie during our absence. It's a great service. Our dog, Charlie, who is spoiled rotten, was able to continue his practice of sleeping on Susie's bed every night, thanks to Ellen, who also took him walking.

APPARENTLY the biggest news story of the past three weeks was the destruction by fire of Castlewood Country club near Pleasanton. It was a beautiful historic landmark and it seems peculiar nothing was done long ago to install a fire extinguishing system.

Fire Plug

You are the "other guy"! It's a rare person who goes through life without being hit by an urgent, nerve-shattering emergency.

Your Community Emergency Services are on constant alert, ready to come to your aid. But, seconds can mean a lifetime. You must do your part. You must be "pre-planned" to notify them quickly, and you must know what to do until professional help arrives. Your body machinery is equipped to cope with most urgent emergency situations but if caught completely unprepared in a crisis you can be struck by a mental short circuit. Perfectly normal people can suffer a sudden shock, paralyzing fright, a mental blackout.

Anyone is vulnerable, caught in the tight grip of personal panic just when every second can mean a lifetime. So don't you think it wise, common sense to review the most likely crises you may face? Have a home emergency plan. Have exit drills in the home. Have a family night-escape plan. Sketch a simple bedroom floor plan of your house. Mark emergency exits used if normal exit is blocked. Have short drills. Be sure children can easily open windows or plan outside help (ladders). Practice EDITH (Exit Drills In the Home).

SENIOR CITIZENS

546 Masonic Ave.

By Minnie Ingraham

I promised you a report on our FBI trip and I wish you could have been with us. What a feeling of majesty comes over you as you walk through the corridors of this magnificent building and realize once more that it belongs to you . . . to me . . . to us Americans . . . no matter what the Kremlin says. A well informed young guide conducted us throughout the headquarters, explaining and elaborating on methods and manners of administering justice through this medium. Hundreds and thousands of file records on every conceivable type of crime that come under their jurisdiction . . . well conditioned offices with happy young women clerks, and we were considerably led to a beautifully appointed conference room for a lecture, where we could ask questions and we certainly did. Then off to Chinatown, to the lovely and ornate Cathay House, where Mr. Tsang appears to think his only task for the day is to make us happy and comfortable, while we fill up on choice Chinese (try saying that with your mouth full of peanut butter) viands. And then to roam among the interesting Oriental shops, where colors rival the sunset, and exquisite carvings keep you oh-ing and ah-ing continually.

And then a breeze came up, just enough to ruffle scarves and lift skirts a little higher . . . a honey-dew of a breeze that reminded us it was time to head for home.

Another innovation . . . for those who have requested more than beginners' play in bridge, there will be a class beginning Friday, Sept. 19, with a charming teacher who has a record of turning out tournament players. A small charge for the course will bring you many hours of expert help. Call 526-1601 for details on this.

On Tuesday, Sept. 23, we shall have the pleasure of viewing films on Nepal and India. These countries are noted for their handsome architecture, and since the globe seems to be shrinking, it behooves us to learn how some other nations live. Come at noon for light refreshments and bring a friend or neighbor. Open to non-members, of course. No trouble with baggage or passports, vaccination or shots . . . just sit back and enjoy yourselves.

School will soon be starting again, and for many little ones it will be the Great Adventure. Can you remember your first day in school? Can you remember your first teacher's name? My beautiful, rosy-cheeked Irish lass, Emma McInerney was her name, was to me the epitome of everything fine and sweet, and certainly the fount of all knowledge. In my day there was no kindergarten, and I went right into the first grade, and when I had to stand before the entire class and recite a poem I had memorized (not written . . . that came later), the heady wine of success nearly overpowered me. This was in Holyoke, Massachusetts, and a Yankee child had stamina, if nothing else.

Our peregrinating members are coming back to the fold with tales of enjoyable trips to various part of the world, and a card from old Santa Claus reminds us he'll be making the rounds again in December and our craft classes are doing their best to be prepared. Lovely exquisite flowers emerge from such common materials as wire and cloth and are breathtakingly beautiful when finished. Come join the group . . . non-members welcome . . . and be amazed at the facility of your own fingers. Bring a sandwich and a friend and join us for coffee on Wednesdays.

Pinochle players still congregate and enjoy a good game with friends. Instruction here too if wanted. The knitters keep turning in finished squares and our Cystic Fibrosis Christmas tag project goes on without cessation. We will soon have to package them for sale and we shall have a stock on hand at the Center for those who wish to "do their bit" in this worthy cause.

Between the Covers

A business and finance section (small business and how to make a small fortune) will be featured at the Albany Library during the months of August, September, and October.

This display will be under the rotate schedule (from one library branch to another) and will be available to interested patrons with three-week take out privilege.

This is the first time a section of this type material has been gathered together and placed in the Albany Library. You are invited to come in, look it over, and borrow it.

We took some notes on the new fiction coming into the Library—and read some. Listed are some suggestions for August "lazy dog" reading.

"Sons," by Evan Hunter. Three generations of men in an American family who participated in World War I, World War II, and the Vietnam War. An interesting concept of the changes of ideology in wars that are profoundly different. It isn't an earth-shaking novel, but Hunter plots well, writes a good sentence, so it is a good yarn.

"The Three Daughters of Madame Liang," by Pearl S. Buck. A new novel by Pearl, and for her fans—a good one. Not another "Good Earth" but the action is laid in China today and is Buck in good form. How old is she? It doesn't really matter; she still writes with vigour, vitality, and her usual sense of good story. We enjoyed it—but we have always been a sucker for Buck. Just published, also, is a new biography of Buck by Theodore F. Harris (in consultation with Pearl Buck).

"Davis," by John Scanlon. The cover states: "A novel about a soldier bound to be one of the great men of history." We would be bound to add: "He thinks." However, for the male of the household who likes a book with plenty of action—here it is. If you would, at times, like to beat the enemy to shooting Davis, join the club. We felt that way too.

Three novels of suspense, not new but new to our Library and suggested summer reading are: "The Unexpected Peace" by Jack Kelly; "The Danube Runs Red" by Richard Meade; and "Count Paradise" by Nichol Fleming. All are swiftly paced and good summer reading.

Next week we'll give the mystery buffs a run-down on what's new and what's in for their under the apple tree reading.
